University of Oxford

Faculty of Medieval and Modern Languages

Online Open Day

Saturday 1 May 2021, 10am-4pm

The live elements of this event will be delivered via Microsoft Teams and Slido (links to access these will be supplied on booking).

We also have a playlist of Open Day videos on our YouTube channel which you can access at any time before, during, or after the live event by clicking on this link.

PROGRAMME

Teams live sessions:

(Note that the content of the two 'Meet our academics and students' sessions will be broadly similar, so you may prefer to attend only one of the two. You are, however, very welcome to attend both if you wish.)

10.30-11.30am Meet Our Academics and Students Part 1: Dr Simon Kemp, together with other Faculty colleagues and current undergraduates.

12-12.30pm An Introduction to Linguistics: Interactive workshop session with Dr Kinga Kozminska.

2-3pm Meet Our Academics and Students Part 2: Prof Julie Curtis, together with other Faculty colleagues and current undergraduates.

Slido Q&A (all day)

Throughout the day academic colleagues will also be answering questions between 10am and 4pm via Slido, where you can type in your questions and view those submitted by other attendees. An access code will be supplied when you register for the event.